

TEEN[®]

Common European Framework (CEFR)

TEEN is a language magazine developed to support the study of English as a foreign language. It follows guidelines laid down in the Common European Framework (CEFR). The CEFR divides language learning into three levels (Basic User [A1, A2], Independent User [B1, B2], Proficient User [C1, C2]). TEEN magazine (upper-intermediate level) will take students from B2 to C1.

There are five issues of TEEN, and each one includes a wide variety of topics designed to stimulate discussion at this upper-intermediate level of English. Each article, or spread, can be adapted to suit your lesson needs, and used either as a stand-alone unit or in conjunction with students' text books. Graded vocabulary and language structures make TEEN a practical, lively, and up-to-date 'mini English course' for intermediate–advanced students.

TEEN has been structured to:

- provide ready-to-use lessons divided into handy units
- support independent learning, and encourage students to check their own work for accuracy
- prepare for exams in English as a Foreign Language
- encourage an interdisciplinary approach to learning

At the end of a year with TEEN students will have learned key vocabulary in a wide range of current topics; be able to produce written and oral work on a big variety of subjects; as well as describe their own experiences and express their own opinions. They will also be able to read and understand more demanding writing on both concrete and abstract topics.

Structured Learning

Each issue of TEEN is divided into separate learning units. The main focus of these are the Reports on pages 6–7, and revision exercises on pages 14–15. In addition, new vocabulary and grammar are presented throughout the magazine, and many of the learning objectives are presented through the magazine in a variety of ways. This reinforces learning by:

- providing a clear, thematic approach, using topical and engaging subjects designed to be of interest to young adult learners;
- presenting new vocabulary and grammar to students a number of times and in a variety of contexts;
- getting students to use what they have learned straight away – creating the right conditions for a flexible and active knowledge of English.
